

What kind of scientist are you?

A brief guide to navigating life in the lab...

The Secret Genius

- Has been doing cell cultures since 4th grade
- Forgets to take their goggles off before they go home at night
- Contributed to three published papers this year

The Humble, Hard Worker

- Quiet, but in a good way
- Only asks questions after trying six different methods by themselves first
- Won't let you compliment their work without giving you a compliment back

The Talker

- Knows about the new relationship you're in before you do;
- Their voice sounds like a sonicator some days
- Still very good at their job despite never looking busy

The Lab Hoarder

- Writes their name on all of their equipment
- Makes their bench look dirty so no one else uses it
- Much nicer after two beers on the weekend

The Renaissance Scientist

- Good at science AND the arts
- Jokes about making cocktails with the lab equipment
- Manages to only eat junk food for lunch

The Skeptic

- Never quite satisfied with the outcome of their tests
- Secretly likes the challenge of a trial gone wrong
- Did you double check your measurements?
